Faces of India Film Screening

Ila, a middle class housewife, is trying to add some spice to her marriage, this time through her cooking. She prepares a special lunchbox to be delivered to her neglectful husband at work. However, it is mistakenly delivered to another office worker, Saajan, a lonely man on the verge of retirement. Curious about the lack of reaction from her husband, Ila puts a little note in the following day's lunchbox, in the hopes of getting to the bottom of the mystery. This begins a series of lunchbox notes between Saajan and Ila, which evolves into an unexpected friendship. Still strangers physically, Ila and Saajan become involved in an epistolary relationship that could jeopardize both their realities.

Date and Venue: 20 November 2014. Emerging Technologies Building, room 3002A, 6:00 p.m.

Free Entry / Refreshments will be served before the screening.

Presented by South Asia Working Group / English Department
Sponsored by Department of Multicultural Services and the Melbern G. Glasscock Center for Humanities Research
Texas A&M University