Join us for an interactive-interdisciplinary symposium:

Delivered in 1963, in response to the theme “forgiveness,” Levinas's Talmudic essay, “Toward the Other,” considers the necessity and limits of forgiveness in the pursuit of justice. This interdisciplinary, interactive symposium will explore Emmanuel Levinas's essay and consider the following questions for their relevance today:

Is everything forgivable?

Is forgiveness, or the expectation of forgiveness, gendered?

What role does forgiveness play in justice?

Is revenge a form of justice?
